

25TH ANNUAL CONVENTION

WASHINGTON, DC, USA | MAY 23-26, 2013

Poster

Breakdown: Conflict's Fundamental Reorganization of Coordinated Systems

Poster Session I - Board: I- 071
 Thursday, May 23, 2013, 8:00 PM - 9:00 PM
 APS Exhibit Hall A

Add to Itinerary

Alexandra E. Paxton
 University of California, Merced

Rick Dale
 University of California, Merced

Intuitively, people recognize that conflict can change the tenor of a relationship; however, conflict's effects can be much deeper, fundamentally changing the structure of human interaction. In this poster, we present findings from several studies aimed at investigating the ways in which conflict reorganizes interpersonal dynamics.

Subject Area: Cognitive
Keywords: Social Interpersonal Relationships

PRINT EMAIL SHARE

- APS Convention Home
- Search Program
- Program PDF
- My Itinerary
- APS Convention App
- Registration

APS Convention News Coverage

- Pre-Convention Events
- 20th Annual APS-STP Teaching Institute
- Workshops
- Plenary Sessions
- Award Addresses
- Special Events
- CE Programs
- Cross-Cutting Theme Programs
- Invited Addresses
- Invited Symposia
- Invited Talks
- Student Events
- Affiliate Meetings & Programs
- Poster Sessions

Exhibitors & Sponsors

Copyright © Association for Psychological Science